Possible Discussion Questions

- Clones as a minority is one of the themes of The Shade Ring Trilogy. And in Aerosol Sky, we learn that the President of the United States is a clone. How would you react to having clones living among us? Or leading our country?
- Was the revelation about President Cohen a surprise? Should she be impeached?
- The threat of war looms large in this final installment of The Shade Ring Trilogy. Do you think it's a realistic scenario? Could finger pointing over global warming lead to dangerous conflict between nations?
- Experts say the issue of climate refugees will become a major problem if the climate continues to warm, causing rising sea levels and deserts to expand, dust storms, and more natural disasters. Does this concern you?
- What's your take on Neave Alvarez as a main character? Did you like her? Dislike her? Did you sympathize with her?
- Did you like the love story at the center of the books? Does Will Galloway appeal to you as a reader?
- The author obviously made an effort to create a diverse cast of characters – including a Native American woman, many ethnicities, a lesbian couple, clones and even a firefighter with Down's Syndrome. Does this seem to be a realistic view of what the future might look like for the United States?
- What is the most memorable scene in the book or the series that might stay with you? The most memorable character?
